

eVA PO CATEGORY CODE GUIDE eVA (X02) EXEMPTION GUIDE

PO CATEGORY CODES

When creating purchase requisitions in eVA the end user is required to select a purchase order category code from a drop-down menu. The PO code selected identifies the type of purchase and if we (and the vendor) are required to pay additional eVA fees on the transaction.

WHERE ARE THE CATEGORY CODES LOCATED? eVA Purchase Requisition

When you create a requisition, the first screen (Title Page) contains the PO category field. Use the drop-down feature >search< for more options, then select the appropriate code. The codes for general use are:

- R01 (Routine)
- S01 (Sole Source)
- P01 (Proprietary)
- X02 (Exempt from eVA transaction fees)

(Other codes may be available, but are to be used ONLY by Procurement and Contracts). There is a brief description of the PO Category Code beside each code number.

WHICH PO CATEGORY CODE DO I USE?:

- R01 (Routine): This purchase order category is used for routine orders. It is the most common PO Category Code. Use this for items such as purchases for supplies either online or on the phone such as Amazon or Supply Room, promotional Items, software, lab supplies, office supplies, subscriptions for bona fide business purposes, and other items not otherwise classified.
- S01 (Sole Source): A sole source is authorized when there is only one source practically available for the goods or services required. This purchase order category code is used when the end user attaches the Sole Source Request and Certification Form (Form C035) to the PR for review and approval by the buyer in Procurement and Contracts.
- P01 (Proprietary): This purchase category code is used when the end user has used specifications that restrict the acceptable “product” to those of one or more specified manufacturers. Competition is available; however, limited within the confines of the manufacturers of the product. The end user must attach the Proprietary Request and Certification Form (Form C034) to the PR for review and approval by the buyer in the Procurement and Contracts.
- X02 (Exempt from eVA transaction fees): This purchase order category code has been developed for use by state agencies when issuing purchase orders in eVA for goods and/or services listed as exempt from eVA transaction fees.
